We wish to express our gratitude for your donation. It is our goal to preserve the public records in our custody and make them available to the public. This Deed of Gift is a standard archival form signed by the donor and recipient, and establishes a common understanding of your wishes and the ability of OGS to fulfill them.

1. It establishes our permanent ownership of the physical gift (book, manuscript, artifact, etc.) so that we are free to invest institutional funds to preserve and process the donation for use.
2. All material accepted by the OGS becomes the property of the OGS. This donation is made without restriction, including display, preservation, retention, or disposition of the property involved, either now or in the future.
3. Holding the copyright ensures OGS that the contents (words, ideas, images, etc.) will be available for future research and publication. This is standard archival practice. The reason for it comes from the fact that copyright is normally passed to heirs. If OGS did not hold the copyright, it would be necessary to seek out the heirs and request it from them. In other cases, heirs may not know that the donor wished the information made public by the archives. Such heirs may try to deny public access against the donor's wishes. By holding copyright, OGS can ensure that the donated material is available to the public permanently.
4. The more information the donor can provide about the gift, the more valuable it will be to researchers.
